- Tour Introduction:

There's something very special about Tarangire National Park. It's one of Tanzania's smaller (dare we say boutique?) parks but don't let its size fool you. Tarangire National Park is crammed full of a spectacular diversity of awe-inspiring landscapes, big skies and, yes, you'll see an amazing range of wildlife. But those in the know go to take in the elephants. Tarangire is renowned for its vibrant population of African bush elephants and our Day Safari will bring you up close and personal to these magnificent animals. It's a great taster safari, too; if you're new to Tanzania, this day trip is great training for longer safaris.

Covid Safety

When you arrive in Tanzania you should know that while no mandatory quarantine period is currently in place, procedures such as temperature and health checks are now mandatory, social distancing is in effect and everyone is required to wear masks in designated places.

We believe these rules are a good thing as there is significant evidence from the World Health Organisation (WHO) that these precautions reduce the risk of infection:

1. Maintaining social distancing.
2. Washing your hands regularly and thoroughly.
3. Wearing face masks.

Luckily, none of these safety measures will detract from the incredible experience of visiting Tanzania. Whether you are on safari in the Ngorongoro Conservation Area, experiencing the exhilaration of the annual Wildebeest Migration in the Serengeti National Park or relaxing on the white-sand beaches of Zanzibar – you are sure to have an idyllic experience.
